Big Sound attracts Big names

Some of the big names of Australia's contemporary music industry have confirmed their attendance at the Big Sound music industry conference to be held next month.

Q Music has just confirmed a diverse line up of local and national speakers including the Australian Record Industry Association's Chief Executive Stephan Peach, george lead singer Katie Noonan, internationally renowned electronic artist/composer David Thrusell, 4MMMFM Music Director Mitch Braund, Roadrunner Records / Metalshop.com Managing Director Jon Satterly, Phantom Records Managing Director Sebastian Chase and many more.

"We have secured a really diverse and interesting line up of speakers at the top of their respective fields", said Q Music Executive Officer Stuart Watters.

This diverse mix of expertise will ensure Big Sound turns on a colourful and diverse series of forums, dedicated to exploring Queensland's local music scene and its place in the wider national and international scenes both today and in the future.

Program & pricing details can now be found online at

"If you are involved in the Queensland music industry in any capacity, whether it be a performance, management, business or studio level, Big Sound is set to be relevant, interesting, and lively" said Stuart Watters.

Big Sound will incorporate a range of free and ticketed music forums, roundtables & one on one sessions over three days from July 10 - 12, 2002, culminating with the launch of the Valley Fiesta (July 12 - 14), Brisbane's biggest outdoor, free music festival. Prices will be kept minimal to ensure access is affordable for all members of the industry.
