Closed Door "Noise" Forum Announced

A closed door "noise" summit has been scheduled as part of the Big Sound Music Industry conference, Q Music announced today.

In response to the Liquor Licensing Division's desire to address identified problems with the Liquor Act, as it relates to live music and entertainment industries, Q Music has seized the opportunity to host a closed door session with a number of industry stakeholders.

"We want to give all parties involved an opportunity to get together and engage in an open, candid discussion that facilitates some mutual resolutions to the noise emission issue" said Stuart Watters.

Q Music believes this is a crucial time to effect legislative change at a state level and enable all the parties involved, to impress upon state government, the importance that music and entertainment industries have in Queensland.

"This is an invaluable opportunity for the Liquor Licensing Division to sit down with the stakeholders in the "noise" debate, and seek a positive outcome for industry and community alike", said Stuart Watters.

The meeting will take place as part of the Big Sound Music Industry Conference being held from July 10 - 12.
